An Ethical Code from a More Civilized Time:
The Impact of Media on Ethical Standards

February 13, 2013
9 to 12pm
Course Code: T267

Presenter:
Stephen F. Kuniak, MSEd, NCC
Program Director
Unity Family Services, Family Based Program
Leechburg, PA

Program Description:
Today, we are inundated with opportunities to partake in media and technology. Our ethical standards help to guide our decision making with upholding our boundaries as agents of social service. The speed with which we gain new methods of accessing media cause these standards to become obsolete almost as soon as they are written. This program will explore the current codes of ethics and best practice ideas for dealing with the, continually changing, possibilities with media in the work place. Participants will also explore new trends that may produce benefits in incorporating technology and media in our work.

Educational Objectives:
1. At the conclusion of this program participants should be able to:
2. Identify social service ethics codes and how they relate to the use of technology and media in practice.
3. Discuss the importance of, and the steps in effective ethical decision making in an ever changing field.
4. Recognize common forms of media that we encounter in counseling and current trends with their use in a professional environment.
5. Examine productive and non-productive uses for technology in the counseling arena.

Target Audience:
This is an introductory program for all mental health care workers, peer specialists, supervisors, administrators and others interested in behavioral health services.

Behavioral Treatment of Obesity with Mental Health Clients

March 27, 2013
9 to 11 a.m.
Course Code: T269

Presenters:

Linda Ewing, PhD, RN
Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Psychology and Pediatrics
University of Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh, PA

Program Description:

This program will discuss adapting obesity and eating disorder treatments to the needs of special populations. Although behavioral approaches have proven effective in producing weight loss in the general adult population, chronically mentally ill patients have been excluded from controlled weight management treatment trials. In this presentation, a three-month behavioral weight control program for patients taking anti-psychotic medications will be discussed and findings reported.

Educational Objectives:

At the conclusion of this program, participants should be able to:

1. Discuss the causes and consequences of obesity.
2. Describe the basics of behavioral treatment of obesity.
3. Identify special considerations for obese patients who are chronically mentally ill.

Target Audience:

This is an introductory program for all mental health care workers, peer specialists, supervisors, administrators and others interested in behavioral health services.
